

MORALE SPONSOR CORENET SEMINAR

Green Building Design

By taking some examples from recent building performance modeling, from a major project, the presentation showed how we can achieve better performance and what we need to trade-off to do so, and we should consider the key factors that developers, clients, designers, cost consultants and project managers can focus on along the long road to the zero-carbon building.

March 2009